Mali New Energy National Energy Battery Cabinet

Overview

What is the energy strategy of Mali?

The general energy strategy of Mali focuses on the development of local resources such as hydropower and solar energy in order to reduce petroleum imports. Objectives of the National Energy Policy regarding renewable energy are: Promotion of RE.

What is Malian energy policy?

Malian energy policy aims at contributing to a sustainable development of the country by making energy services available to as many as possible, thereby favouring (promotion of) social-economic activities. There are four specific objectives: Strengthen international cooperation regarding the energy sector.

How a decentralized energy supply works in Mali?

The small size and dispersed locations of villages in Mali for a long time made off-grid decentralized mechanical and electric energy supply the only viable option. A multifunctional platform consists of a 10-hp diesel engine that, as desired, can power a mill, a generator, a pump or other devices mounted on the same rail.

How much energy does Mali use?

The remaining 4% of the primary energy supply is largely made up of renewably generated electricity, mainly by hydropower. On the energy consumption side, households consume 86 % of Mali's energy, (road) transport 10 %, industry (mainly mining) 3 % and agriculture 1 % (2003 figures). ►Go to Top.

Why is biomass important in Mali?

Given biomass's central role in Mali's energy mix, more work needs to be done on researching and developing drought resistant crops. The development of alternative fuels from biomass residues would help to off-set household energy vulnerability, particularly in rural areas.

How much electricity does Bamako have?

With a third of its 16 million population living in urban areas (again a third of which in Bamako), approximately a quarter of the Malian population is provided with electricity, made up of 59% in urban areas and 14% in rural areas.
