Photovoltaic solar panels foreign trade

Overview

Does trade friction affect solar photovoltaic trade?

As a key renewable energy, solar photovoltaic (PV) trade also suffers from large-scale trade frictions. China, as the largest solar PV manufacturer and exporter, accounts for 80 % of the global supply chain. Under this background, this paper takes China as a case, to assess the impacts of trade frictions on PV trades.

How does international trade affect solar PV?

International trade policies significantly influence manufacturing costs and investment returns throughout the solar PV supply chain. Tariffs and trade barriers can increase component prices by 10-30%, directly impacting module costs and project viability.

How do international trade policies shape the global solar photovoltaic landscape?

International trade policies shape the global solar photovoltaic (PV) landscape through complex networks of tariffs, regulations, and bilateral agreements that significantly impact market dynamics and industry growth.

How did the US & EU trade war affect solar PV?

- The trade war of the early 2010s on solar PV initiated by the US and European Union (EU) triggered a major wave of bankruptcies in China that proved to be a temporary setback for the industry. China's efforts to stimulate domestic PV deployment sustained the industry's growth and drove rapid cost reductions for Chinese-manufactured modules.

How is the solar PV industry adapting to changing trade policies?

The solar PV industry demonstrates remarkable resilience in adapting to evolving trade policies through strategic diversification and innovation. Companies are increasingly establishing regional manufacturing hubs to mitigate tariff impacts and reduce supply chain vulnerabilities.

Does trade protectionism affect China's solar PV exports?

Zhu et al. (2021) examined the impact of both internal and external forces on China's solar PV export during 2007–2016, and found that trade protectionism and some non-tariff barriers inhibit China's PV exports.
