Selling outdoor power supplies in Colombia

Overview

How can a foreign company get a distributor in Colombia?

To secure an agent, representative, or distributor, the foreign company must execute a contract that meets the provisions of the Colombian Commercial Code. This contract must be registered with the Chamber of Commerce in the city where the agent/representative is located. Agency or representation agreements do not require government approval.

How to organize a business in Colombia?

There are three common forms of organizing your business in Colombia: a corporation, a limited liability partnership, and a branch or subsidiary of a foreign corporation. U.S. firms should obtain legal and tax related advice from a Colombian law firm or accounting firm.

Are contraband products available in Colombia?

Consumer products from around the globe are available in Colombia at acceptable price levels. Under-invoicing of goods (usually of Chinese origin) and contraband articles sold at deep discounts remain a problem for legitimate retailers. The Colombian government has attained encouraging results in its effort to reduce contraband.

Do foreign companies need legal representation in Colombia?

The one exception to this law is for sales to the government, which do require foreign bidders to have legal representation in Colombia. To secure an agent, representative, or distributor, the foreign company must execute a contract that meets the provisions of the Colombian Commercial Code.

Do foreign companies have to register in Colombia?

All companies (including branches of foreign companies domiciled in Colombia) must register themselves and their accounting books, including daily journal entries, balance sheet, meeting minutes, and other required documents by law in the Commercial Register of the Chamber of Commerce in the cities where they are located.

Why is direct marketing popular in Colombia?

Direct marketing is popular in Colombia. Its growth has been fueled by such factors as technological advances in printing and distribution, the spread of cable TV, the increased use of credit cards and flexible payment plans and changing lifestyles.
