How will China's Smart Energy Island project work?

The two sides plan to jointly build an offshore integrated smart energy island demonstration project in Dongtai, Jiangsu Province, including wind, solar, hydrogen and energy storage, with a total installed capacity of 1.5 GW, and will actively seek cooperation and investment opportunities for renewable energy projects in third markets.

What is China's first offshore wind power project?

This particular project, the first Sino-foreign joint venture offshore wind power project in China with a total installed capacity of 500,000 kilowatts, was completed in 2021 with an investment of approximately RMB 8 billion yuan. And the Dongtai IV and V projects were connected to the grid in December 2019 and November 2021, respectively.

Will EDF and CEIC jointly build a smart energy island?

EDF and CEIC want to jointly construct an “offshore comprehensive smart energy island demonstration project” off the Dongtai region of Jiangsu Province. This would include a “coordinated integration of hydrogen storage and green energy”, said CEIC.

How much green electricity is supplied by China's Wind power project?

By the end of March 2023, a total of 3.5 billion kWh of green electricity was supplied by the project, meeting the annual electricity needs of nearly 5 million residents, as one of the highest generating capacities of offshore wind power projects in China under similar conditions.

Is China's offshore wind sector a good investment?

China's offshore wind sector is already the largest in the world and set for huge growth over the next decade, but investments by western developers in assets there are still thin on the ground.

Which countries have signed energy cooperation agreements with China?

PVTIME – France and China have signed several energy cooperation agreements, particularly in the nuclear and renewable energy sectors, during French President Emmanuel Macron’s state visit to China. French state-owned utility Electrici
